I'm pleased that the Large Black as a breed has held its own this past year, same number of boars and marginal gains with sow numbers. It is also pleasing that the number of sows with birth notes has increased by 20. There are no huge problems with any of the bloodlines, although there are still a few lines with low numbers I know from speaking to breeders there are youngsters coming through with most of them that will be registered soon. The BPA breed reps and club are working together on projects to encourage the spread of the rarer genetics and use of under represented animals within the national herd. Thank you to all who managed to do their survey in a timely manner, there are more breeders each year and having fewer people to chase it makes my job so much easier.
